8th Annual Military Ball "Othello" Nov. 13, & 14 Held In The Gym Nov. 21 Second & Third Nights

On Saturday, November 21, the Eighth Annual Military Ball will be presented. The affair is co-sponsored each year by the Loyola College Scabbard and Blade Co. I-11 and the Pershing Rifle Co. T-15.

The dance, which will be held in Loyola Gymnasium, is open to members of the Basic and Advanced Courses in R.O.T.C. as well as any other of the student body who wish to attend. Admission has been set at $5.00 per couple for the 9 p.m.-1 a.m. affair. Dress is designated as formal but corsages are not necessary. Tickets are being sold by all members of the R.O.T.C. Advanced Course.

Evening Highlight

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of this year's queen, Miss Betty Pogge. The honorary rank of Cadet Brigade Commander will be bestowed on Miss Pogge, who is presently in her final year at Villa Julie Junior College. Accompanying the queen, as her court, will be Honorary Cadet Battle Group Commanders Miss Suzanne Kelley and Miss Carol Schiesser, Honorary Cadet Captains Miss Jane Metallo, Miss Pam Carozza, Miss Anita Catalano, Miss Barbara Goldback, Miss Carmen Crotola, and Miss Mary Lynch.

Recently chosen Pershing Rifle Queen Miss Mary Carolyn Boyle will join the court as Honorary Cadet Deputy Brigade Commander.

Freshman Review

Loyola College's ROTC brigade officially welcomed the class of 1963 at the Freshman Review on November 4.

In an address to the brigade Father Galvin pointed out that the ROTC program gives the men of Evergreen an appreciation of their duty to their country. This appreciation, Father Galvin remarked, was lacking when he attended Loyola in the pre-ROTC era.

A certificate of merit for outstanding service was awarded to Captain John D. Wightman by the VII United States Army Corps. Distinguished Military Student emblems were awarded to MS IV cadets Joseph M. Bowers, Albert A. Muehlberger, Richard G. Pyle, Michael C. Schmidtman, and Michael F. Spigelmire.

Short Takes

Office Space

Office space in the new Student Union Building has been allocated to the various student activities. The final allocation was completed by a special faculty sub-committee during the past week.

Activity Budgets

Budgets for student activities were approved during the week of October 23. The budgets are approximately the same as last year's. This year's new computation of the activity fund was made, based on 7½% of the tuition received.

Vocations

At the last student assembly, the Dean of Studies announced that during the past ten years, 65 Loyola students have entered the priesthood or brotherhood. Of these 19 entered the Society of Jesus, 14 have joined other religious orders and 32 entered the Diocesan clergy.

Brains

Last year's graduating class won a total of 37 fellowships, assistantships and scholarships.

Sounds Set

Modern Jazz aficionados are reminded of the Johns Hopkins Jazz Festival at the Fifth Regiment Armory on November 16. Among the artists are Dave Brubeck, Maynard Ferguson and Chris Connor.

Loyola Nite

Loyola's "Burnt Toast of the Town" is scouting dog acts, musical balloonists, spoon players and record pantomimes for its annual Thanksgiving Eve spectacular.

The Evergreen Players will present "Othello" by William Shakespeare tonight and tomorrow night, November 14 and 15, respectively. The tragedy will be presented in Cohn Hall and tickets are priced at $1.50 single or couple.

Frosh and Sophs Begin Politicking

Beginning today, November 13, any aspiring politician in the Freshman and Sophomore classes may obtain petitions for candidacy from the Registrar's office.

These petitions are the initial step in running for campus offices. They are to include the signatures of 25 men of candidate's year and his own signature. The other signatures need not be vote guarantees but only approvals of candidacy. A man can approve of several candidates.

Deadlines

Petitions are to be filed on or before 3 P.M., November 20. After they have been filed with the Registrar's office or Elections Chairman, there will be individual interviews with the Dean of Studies.

Campaigning proper will not begin until November 30.

Election Day is scheduled for December 9. Freshman will elect President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and one Student Council Rep. Sophomores will elect one Council Representative.

The Moor of Venice and Iago are being portrayed by two Loyola Seniors, Nelson Cooney and Paul Cawthorne. Mary Lou Donnelly of Notre Dame College is appearing as Desdemona. Miss Donnelly will be remembered for her performances in "Engaged" and "Glass Menagerie". Bob Dunn is director of the play and Father John Scanlan is moderator of the Dramatics Society.

Principal Cast

The role of Emilia will be played by Mary Joy Arnold. Bianca is being portrayed by Barbara McGrath, an actress who is quite familiar to Evergreen playgoers. Cassio is being played by Ed Slawski; Brabantino by David McDonnell; Ludovico by Ed Conery; the Duke by John Baynes; and Rodrigo by Bob Ashton.

This is the first time that the Dramatics Society has presented a Shakespearean tragedy since 1923. That year the group presented "Macbeth".

Other Loyola men who have roles in the "Othello" production are: Charles Weigand, Dennis Lingenfelter, Joe Bowman, Lex Bishop, Tom Kenney, Phil Middleton, John Kuhn, and Charles Kloch.

Third Showing

Last night was the first regular production of this play. The four principals appeared in a short sketch taken from the play on WBAL-TV last Friday at 9 A.M.

Loyola presented the Bard on TV last Friday. Nelson Cooney and Mary Lou Donnelly give preview of tonight's and tomorrow's "Othello".

Togetherness Part I

How often is it that a college professor is the most talked about figure in the country? In most cases the Number One person is a politician, or a Hollywood actor, or a sports figure. The reason why this teacher is so talked about is a classic one. He did something that college professors do not tolerate. He cheated.

Why does Jack Sweitzer seat everyone as far apart during a test as he can? And why does he stand in the back of the room and watch each student carefully? Why does Father Scott give a different test to each row, and then pace deliberately up and down the aisle? The answer is a simple one. These men are trying to keep their students from cheating.

We think back to those Monday nights three years ago when we faithfully watched that quiz show, and how we breathed every deep breath, wrenched our faces, pulled our hair, wiped our brow, as the champion answered his questions. And we never suspected that he was cheating.

Until the time this former college professor finally admitted that he had been told the questions and answers which were asked him, we believed that he had been telling the truth. Why should we not believe him? He said he had not been briefed, and he was a college professor.

The question of greed must have come into this man's mind. He thought he could get something for nothing. This certainly is no example to set for students; getting something the easy way. We hope that all students who have never entered his classroom will learn the lesson that the college professor unwittingly taught. R.A.R.

Togetherness Part II

One of the harder things to learn in college is that the faculty members are not to be feared. During grammar school and high school most of us had acquired an attitude of treating teachers as strange dogs, friendly but warily. During college, though, we begin to realize that education is a two way street and there must be a close communication between the teacher and the student.

In college the difference between students and faculty members becomes less defined as the instructor becomes more an instructor and less of an overseer. Frequently the teacher is also only a few years out of college, and more interested in learning from the students. As occasionally happens in this age of the G.I. Bill there is often only a year or two difference in the ages of the student and professor.

What we are trying to get across is that there should be no reticence on the part of the student for speaking to the teacher, just because he is a teacher. In fact, there should be a positive interest in conversing, for the teachers are not only human, but many of them are extremely interesting individuals. J.M.M.

Meet The Faculty

Dr. John Duffy

"In my opinion, a good student is one who facilitates his ambition by trying his best in each undertaking." So says Dr. John P. Duffy, newly appointed instructor in Biology and Chemistry and newly ordained in the teaching profession.

Dr. Duffy is a native New Yorker and in 1950 received his B.S. degree in Biology from St. Francis College, Brooklyn. He proceeded immediately to graduate school and received an M.A. in Zoology from St. John's University, Jamaica, New York, in 1952.

Korean Conflict

During the Korean War, he served with the 207 Survey Detachment of the Eighth Army in Korea. His work mainly entailed OPERATION SWITCH, which involved the trade of prisoners and a specifically, the transfer of the Red Prisoners to Formosa.

Back Home

Upon returning to the United States, Dr. Duffy extended his education by attending Rutgers University and, in 1958, graduated with a Doctorate Degree in Entomology. From that time until September, 1959, he was employed by the U.S. Health Service in Columbia, South Carolina. While in the Tropical Diseases Laboratory, Dr. Duffy experimented with malaria bearing mosquitoes and also made comprehensive tests on the efficiency of various new insecticides.

When asked why he chose Loyola to inaugurate his teaching career, Dr. Duffy replied, "I received the best offer from Loyola."

He states further that he is very pleased with the aims of the administration and the faculty. He said, "I find the debates in the faculty lunchroom extremely interesting. One is able to hear such a variety of viewpoints."

Dr. Duffy is 31 years old and lives with his wife and four children in Arbutus. His hobbies include photography, swimming, and basketball.

the Watchdog

We wanted to watch the soccer game with Washington College the other day, but unfortunately were unable to get through the large crowd.

There is a new game for the senior class rice throwers, it's called "Clean it Up".

The presence of surveyors on campus might mean that henceforth Evergreen will be known as U.S. Route 13. This will be a boon to the seniors inasmuch as it would cut down their traveling time between Ethics and Psychology. However, we feel that some of the professors might object to the necessity of answering questions from lost travelers.

Unfortunately Drill was not held this week. This means that the officers must find some other outlets for their emotional disturbances.

The Junior and Senior class of the scientific bent are thinking of having the Biology Department wired for early morning heat, and also for 60,000 volts. By the way, we are wondering why we haven't seen a certain well loved biology professor running around the block lately.

A good idea for career day might be a lecture on the future of modern intellectuals in TV by Charles Van Doren.

A member of the Accounting Department has been credited with the founding of a revolutionary new form of shorthand: just use the first letter of each word. All the accounting majors love it.

The Dramatics Club is now advertising via television. Are you watching, Hollywood? We have heard that within two months, the Othello of the play will be married. Good luck, Mrs. Cooney!

The threatened duel between the editor and several of "Them Who Are" because of unflattering pictures, was canceled because of religious reasons. All participants are devout cowards.

Goalie Don Wallenhorst (No. 10) prepares to stop shot, as Wade Bowman puts pressure on Western Md. forward.

Soccer Team Caps Season

conquering a well-fortified Catholic U. squad, 3-0.

Following a 5-0 loss to Baltimore University's defending champions, the host Greyhound squad probably played their best game of the season in losing to unbeaten Western Maryland in double overtime, 3-2. The game was the most hotly contested all year and could have ended in a Loyola victory had it not been for a freak save by the Western Maryland goalie.

The leading scorers for the season were Jim Kennedy, who notched 6, Jerry Beck and Bucky Effinger. The defense was spearheaded by goalie Don Wallenhorst and defensemen Rick Campbell, Tom Schultz, Dennis Ray, Tom Jones and Wade Bowman.

Since Jerry Beck and Jones are the only players mentioned above that are going to be graduated, Coach Lind can look forward to a good number of experienced returnees with which to build the 1960 squad. The team seems to be well-fortified as defense goes, but lacks two or three boys who can score consistently. If Lind can come up with the much-needed punch, the Greyhounds could become a serious threat to the title next year.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By BILL LOHNES

Greyhound Sports Editor

In an attempt to provide an incentive to the weaker teams in the conference and also to get part of its post-season basketball tourney into different gymnasiums, the Mason-Dixon Conference has changed the Tournament rules this year.

Previously, the top eight finishers of the fifteen team league automatically became the participants in the seven game, single-elimination post-season finale. Due to this setup, however, several schools in the conference have never been represented in a Mason-Dixon Tournament.

The mechanics of the new arrangement are as follows:

1. There will be two divisions, the Northern and the Southern, composed of 7 and 8 teams, respectively.

The Northern division will consist of Johns Hopkins, Loyola, Mount St. Mary's, State Teachers, Baltimore U., Washington C., and Western Maryland.

The Southern division will consist of American U., Bridgewater, Catholic U., Gallaudet, Hampden-Sydney, Lynchburg, Randolph-Macon, and Roanoke.

2. At season's end, each division will send four teams to the Tournament, (which will probably be held at Catholic U.).

The participating teams will be decided by divisional playoffs, which will be played at a different school within the division each year. (The Northern playoff will be held in 1960 at Western Maryland.)

Three games will be held in the North, and four in the South, with the winners going to the Tourney. Since there are only seven teams in the North, the divisional winner draws a bye. (This means that should Loyola win the Northern division, the Hounds would automatically get a free ride to the M-D Tournament.)

The above, basically, is how the new system will work.

"We decided to make the change," said Greyhound Athletic Director Emil G. Reitz, because this way, each institution will get a chance to participate in the championship playoffs, and, will, eventually, be able to sponsor a divisional playoff."

How this new system will work, no one can tell until it has been tested in seasonal play. From here, it looks like a good idea, — and while we're on the topic of basketball, have you picked up your season book yet. Nappy Doherty only has about 100 left, so GET IT NOW.

Soccer Team Tops Washington 1-0 To Cap Season

LATE RESULTS: The Loyola Booters ended its season in fine fashion by beating Washington College 1-0, here at Evergreen. Will Knoche's fourth quarter goal provided the margin of victory. The Greyhounds ended the season with a 4-5-2 record.

Taking an overall look at the season of the Loyola College soccer team, the campaign can be divided into two distinct sections.

The first half of the season the booters had an 0-3-2 record. Losing to Maryland, Mt. St. Mary's and American U. by 6-0, 3-1 and 4-1 scores respectively, and tying Hopkins and Towson State Teachers by the same 2-2 count, the Green could only muster six goals against seventeen for the opposition. The only player who scored with any consistency was Jim Kennedy, who banged in three goals in the closing three games of the first half.

Starting with the Georgetown game, however, Coach Tommy Lind's crew looked like an entirely different team. While the defense was holding the opposition to 9 goals, the offense showed signs of coming alive in the process of scoring 11 times. After the 1-0 win over Georgetown, the Hounds beat Randolph-Macon 5-1 and then ended a three-year drought by

Intramural Items

BY MATT SCHWIENTECK

The Champion Vets rose to the occasion to defeat a stubborn Houndog squad 13-6.

Again Perry and Twardowicz proved to be the deciding factors for the intramural champs.

Twardowicz snared an enemy aerial on the Hounds 40 yard line and went in for the score. Perry hung up another six points on a 10 yard scamper around left end.

A pass from Perry to Twardowicz for the extra point completed the scoring for the Vets.

The Karceski-Truax combination pushed across a score for the Hounds. The Hounds drove to the Vets' 10 yard line where Karceski spotted Truax all alone in the end zone. Pete rolled out and threw a perfect strike to Barry for the T.D. The point after touchdown was missed.

The Wild Bull Moose forfeited to the Dukes in another intramural football game.

The latest tennis result received was Tillman over Rosenfeld.

Nappy Doherty requests that those who have played tennis matches give the results to him.

Paul Sherman wins against the Sho'men, as coach McElroy stops the watch. One week later, Sherman set a new home record of 16:43.8

Paul Sherman Responsible For Harriers Success

By LAWRENCE R. STURM

Success for an athlete in any sport depends on more than the athlete's natural ability. He must love the sport, have a great desire to excel in it, and must devote a great deal of time to practicing it in order to develop his natural ability.

Cross-country is probably the best example of this sport. These are the reasons why Paul Sherman, senior captain of Loyola's harriers, has been able to finish first in seventeen of the twenty-four dual meets which he has participated in since his freshman year.

Paul loves the sport so much that he trains throughout the year. He also works with the other members of the team, encouraging them and helping them to improve their time.

His desire to win goes beyond his personal success, and the success of Loyola's fine cross-country team is, in more than one way, due to Paul. He has even been instrumental in getting certain members of the present team to come to Loyola College.

If Paul were not so unfortunate as to be running in the Mason-Dixon Conference, at a time when competition is the best that it has ever been, he would surely be the conference champ. According to Coach Bill McElroy, he is, "The best runner that I have ever coached, and the greatest runner ever to represent Loyola."

Paul is also an outstanding member of the track team. And here again, his great team spirit is shown, by the fact that, he has been coaching the half-milers, the milers, and two-milers since his freshman year.

As an athlete, Paul is truly a success. If he carries some of the things which have made him successful in athletics into his career, he will surely have an outstanding future.

Loyola Sponsors X-Country Meet Here Tomorrow

Loyola College will hold its second annual Invitational Cross-Country Meet tomorrow at 2:00 P.M. over the Evergreen course. Mount St. Mary's, Washington College, Towson State Teachers, Gallaudet, and Loyola have entered full teams. A few entries are expected from American U., while Baltimore U. will send a single entry.

Even though the Bees are entering just one man, Wayne Gallatin, he will be favorite to capture the individual title. Paul Sherman, Greyhound captain and winner of last years Invitation will be one of the main threats to Gallatin. Jim Murphy of Mount St. Mary's Don Maskin of Towson, Earl Moore of Washington College, Bill Davidson, of Gallaudet, and Loyola's Stack Burton should be up front to challenge for first place.

Loyola is the defending champion and is the favorite to repeat last year's victory. The Hounds should receive stiff competition from Mount St. Mary's and Washington College. The Evergreen course record of 16:43.8 set by Paul Sherman two weeks ago seems uncertain to fall even if the course is dry. All medals and trophies for the meet are donated by the Ensign C. Markland Kelly, Jr. Memorial Post American Legion #174.

Sho'men downed

Coach Bill McElroy was quite pleased with his teams victory over Washington College. "It was a tremendous team effort," said the elated coach. The Hounds took the first four spots as Sherman, Burton, Lew Smith, and Hank McGraw wound up ahead of the Sho'men outstanding freshmen Earl Moore. "This boy Moore was really supposed to be great," comments Mac, "and we finished four men head of him."
